

Greetings,

As a licensed amateur radio operator and member of the electronics profession, I have serious reservations regarding the adoption of BPL/PLC technologies for consumer/home use. I would hope that a very thorough testing process would be conducted to insure that BPL/PLC is possible without severe interference implications for amateur radio and other(emergency,government,etc.)services. With a wireless future looming large, we all must be very cautious regarding unintended results. Thanks you for your consideration,
Ron Marshall
